

---

---

Humanistic Mathematics Network Journal #20

July 1999

---

---

From the Editor

Gian-Carlo Rota: In Memoriam	1	A Mathematics Manifesto: Think Differently! Think Quantitatively! Quantitative Awareness as a Fresh Thinking Cap	33
Richard Stanley		Miriam Lipschutz-Yevick
Middle School Math Teaching and How It Harms Our Children	3	Art and Geometry: Proportion and Similarity	36
Jerome Dancis		Catherine A. Gorini
Changing the Subject, Or, Would You Hire a Good Clarinet Teacher to Teach Your Child the Violin?	7	Analogic Thinking in Science and Math	38
Jerome Dancis		Martha D. Patton
Is Our Practice of Humanistic Mathematics Actually Humane?	10	A Collection of Ideas on Systems and Their Extensions	45
Jack Lochhead		Paul Fjelstad
Is Mathematics Education Taking a Step Backward?	12	Book Review: Strength in Numbers by Sherman Stein	47
Frances Kuwahara Lang		Alvin White
Research Papers in a Math Methods' Course: A Window into the Life of Ramanujan	16	An Informal History of Classical Rhetoric for Mathematicians (Plato and Aristotle)	48
John Grant McLoughlin		Phillip Keith
Marlene Neff		Sandy Z. Keith
Using Writing to Connect With Our Math- ematics Students	22	Book Review: What Is Mathematics, Really? by Reuben Hersh	51
Ann Sitomer		Harald M. Ness
Between Childhood and Mathematics: Word Problems in Mathematical Education	25	In Future Issues...
André Toom

The poems featured in this issue are by sixth and seventh grade students taught by Margaret Schaffer at Hale Middle School in Los Angeles, CA.