

---

Humanistic Mathematics Network Journal #26

June 2002

---

From the Editor

|  |    |   |    |
|--|----|---|----|
| Comments on Zal Usiskin's Article in the HMNJ for May, 2001Bob Stein                               | 1  | Book Review: The Teaching Gap by James W. Stigler and James HiebertReview Part II: Contrasting U.S. and Japanese Beliefs about Mathematics TeachingMichael L. Brown   | 39 |
| LoopyGeorge W. Hart  | 3  | Review of JoAnne Growney's "My Dance is Mathematics"Sally Lipsey  | 44 |
| History of Mathematics, an Intuitive ApproachAlejandro R. Garciadiego                              | 6  | Portfolio Assessment in Liberal Arts MathematicsMike Kenyon   | 45 |
| Humanizing Mathematics: The Humanistic Impression in the Course for Mathematics TeachingAda Katsap | 12 | Divisibility: A Problem Solving Approach Through Generalizing and SpecializingRene Zazkis   | 50 |
| A Brief Look at Mathematics and TheologyPhilip J. Davis  | 19 | Equation StoryWhitney Perret  | 54 |
| Pat's Prologues: A Radio Talk ShowPatricia C. Kenschaft  | 25 | Does a mathematical/scientific world-view lead to a clearer or more distorted view of reality—purposive musings inspired from readings in The URANTIA Book, The Cosmic Family, Volume I, and elsewhere.Jeru   | 55 |
| Notes on Formal ConstructivismD. Joyner &amp; P. Lejarraga   | 28 | Special Section: On the Publication of the 26th Issue of the HMNJSandra KeithPhilip DavisAnnalisa CrannellMarion WalterReuben HershLarry CopesJoAnne GrowneySandra KeithStephen Brown | 59 |
| "Calculus"Sarah Glaz   | 30 |   |    |
| Marcy's Dots: A Problem on a National Test RevisitedP. Baggett &amp; A. Ehrenfeucht                | 32 |   |    |
| AphorismsLee Goldstein   | 33 |   |    |
| When is a Math Problem Really "Real"?Michael E. Goldberg   | 35 |   |    |

Comments and Letters
In Future Issues...